Guidelines & Examples

1. Naming streets in new developments

A new street name should be completely different from any already in use in the area. Please telephone us if you are unsure. Names should also be unambiguous and can be easily understood over the phone (to enable effective emergency service response). Please note that it is desirable that any suggested street names should have some connection with the area.

2. Erection of a new block of flats/conversion into flats

Naming and numbering can be complex in buildings with flats; the following gives some basic guidance.

All named blocks should end with one of the following:

- Court - for flats and other residential buildings
- Mansion - Other residential buildings
- House - Residential blocks or office
- Point - High residential blocks only
- Tower - High residential or office blocks

In a conversion of a property into flats previously numbered 25 High Street, the properties would be called successively from Flat 1, 25 High Street.

If the building was called Norfolk House, the property would become, Flat 1, Norfolk House, 25 High Street.

The Street Naming and Numbering team will ensure that flat numbering is consistent with the British Standard BS7666.

3. Erection of houses following demolition of existing house

If a house at 25 High Street is demolished and replaced by 3 new house, they would become 25A, 25B and 25C High Street. This ensures that the street numbering is consistent and avoids the renumbering of the whole street.

4. Changing name of un-numbered house

For private houses in existing un-numbered roads it is essential that the houses are officially allocated names which are registered with the emergency services. Anyone wishing to change the name of their un-numbered house must apply to the Council.

5. Adding house name to existing number

If you wish to call your house a name, this is quite acceptable to the Council as long as you continue to use the street number. However there should not be any duplication of any house names in an area. .

7. Re-naming or re-numbering of streets and buildings

Re-naming/re-numbering existing streets and buildings is normally avoided unless the benefits clearly outweigh the obvious disadvantages. The occupiers of houses on corners occasionally apply to change their addresses from one road to the other because they have altered their main access door to the house so that the entrance is facing an adjoining street.

8. Holiday Homes

Holiday homes are not postcoded by the Royal Mail and postcodes for this type of property are allocated by the Council to the nearest postcode for referencing and locating purposes. The Royal Mail will not include these addresses on the Postal Address File (PAF) as no postal delivery is required.

9. Postcodes

Postcodes are allocated by the Royal Mail only where there is a postal delivery point at the property and where the property is either a main residence or a business. The address will then be included in the Postcode Address File for service delivery.

General

Displaying numbers and names

A property with only a name must display it. Where a name has been allocated as well as a number, this must always be used with the number. It cannot be regarded as an alternative.

Use of No. 13

All numbers including 13 must be used in the property sequence. Applications to omit a particular number from a numbering sequence will be declined.

Private garages/similar buildings

Private garages and similar buildings used only for housing cars, etc are not usually numbered.

Entrances in more than one street

If a building has entrances in more than one street but it is a multi-occupied building and each entrance leads to a separate occupier then each entrance should be numbered in the appropriate road. Exceptions may be made depending on the circumstances for a house divided into flats. A named building may not have more than one number in one street.

Repetition

The council will not allow the repetition of existing names in a road or building titles (for instance a request for St Mary's Close off an existing St Mary's Way, near St Mary's Church, etc).

Marketing titles

The informal adoption of unofficial 'marketing' titles used by developers in the sale of new properties is not recommended. Often these will not meet our requirements and occupiers of such premises unfortunately feel aggrieved by the 'loss' of a supposedly prestigious address.
